TRANSFORMATION CONSULTANCY

HOW CAN A COMMUNITY OF PRACTICE STRENGTHEN THE FUTURE OF YOUR TRAINING AND ASSESSMENT?

Utilizing a discussion format faculty will strengthen their professional practice by being exposed to an external perspective (consultant input) and through the sharing of local knowledge and experiences. The professional development approach has been proven to be well suited to adult education world-wide. Such a program can run weekly, monthly or quarterly. Benefits include:

- participants are supported to implement what they have learned (all attempts will be celebrated)
- The process is built upon long-term trusting relationships
- Participation takes courage and experimentation
- All participant views are equally valued
- Reflective practice is a significant part of the process – allowing lecturers to gain further clarification as required.

Institutions can expect to develop trustworthy faculty relationships built upon the sharing of teaching and learning ideas and techniques. The approach is well suited to ongoing professional development.
